Financing Alliance for Health

LONG-TERM SYSTEMIC IMPACT

Valued Community Health Workforce

Policy, labor rights, and advocacy expand the reach of community health workers, elevate their status, and ensure formal recognition and accountability.

Better Quality of Care

Better training and tools lead to earlier disease detection and more lives saved in underserved communities.

Coordinated Funding Strategies

Transparent data sharing aligns and coordinates smarter CHW investments that work together rather than compete or overlap.

Increased Women's Leadership

Women have new pathways to participate and lead in the community health workforce, transforming both careers and care.

Sustainable National Financing

Communities have healthcare that lasts as local governments increase their investment, supported by strategic donor partnerships.

With investments from the Skoll Foundation, the Johnson & Johnson Foundation, and the Global Fund, the Africa Frontline First Catalytic Fund has made huge strides in ensuring community health workers are adequately paid, trained, and equipped to do their life-saving work. It's simple: when these frontline workers are supported, they save more lives. The Global Fund's country-led approach, fund-matching mechanisms, and bold partnership with proximate social innovators made them an ideal partner for this collective and catalytic investment in community health.

What made the Catalytic Fund work?

The Right Set of Actors
Large global health funders, catalytic philanthropy, frontline doers, countries and regional leadership, champions like President Sirleaf and Dr. Kaseya, and CHWs themselves came together to do what none of us could do alone. Addresses Critical System Gaps Aligned under a structured approach to strengthen CHW systems for extended primary care reach and impact.

Progress under AFF-CF 1.0 now enables us to take on the next set of challenges for long-term health outcomes:

Build resilience across our portfolio to protect critical gains from funding disruptions.

Accelerate sustainability for countries ready to transition to domestic financing.

The job is not done.
